Midsummer in Marfa: A West Texas Fairy Tale weaves together multiple performance genres in unprecedented fashion - including classical symphonic and mariachi music, poetry, theatre, Latin dance and even reggaetón - in a revolutionary, bilingual performance experience for children. Based on the story of Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream but with a Tex-Mex twist, this multidimensional performance brings the plot to a new setting: the quiet, desert town of Marfa, TX, 60 miles from the Mexican border and famous for its mysterious "Marfa Lights," a place where cultures collide and languages occasionally divide. Don't miss this opportunity to expose your students to a truly unique, Texas-flavored performing arts experience presented by your ASO.
